DETAILED ACTION

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: At pages 7-8(of the specification) and page 14(of the claims), the recited letters are in different fonts and slanted orientation than the rest of the disclosure.

Appropriate correction is required.

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

3. Claims 1-7, 10-14 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Hashimoto(20030061526A1).

Hashimoto discloses a method and an apparatus for power reduction management of an information processing device comprising a task management application program for relating times to power saving settings(see abstract and paragraphs[0008]-[0014]) comprising an input/output control section(44) and a management table(152-154; see figure 1) which are function as claimed.

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 8-9 and 15-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hashimoto in view of(Yasunobu, JP abstract 11126118A).

Hashimoto is discussed above. Yasunobu is cited to show that the concept of limiting brightness of the backlight of an LCD device by reducing output electric power of an inverter of the backlight for power saving purpose is old(see the abstract). Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the system of Hashimoto with the noted teaching of Yasunobu such that the power saving task management of Hashimoto would perform power saving of an LCD display device with a backlight as an output device because both references are related to power management of input/output devices.

6. Claim 17 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hashimoto in view of Fujii et al(6,442,443B1).

Hashimoto is discussed above. Fujii et al is cited show that the concept of reducing output power of an speaker device during a predetermined time is old(see figure 2 and the abstract). Therefor, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the system of Hashimoto with the noted teachings of Fujii et al such that to perform a power reduction of an speaker device as an output device because both references are related to power management of input/output devices of a computer system.

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Shiraga, Lam, Kono et al, Shimomura et al, Kasamatsu et al and Matsumoto et al are made of record to show various types of power management for different types of input/output devices.

8. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Mike Fatahiyar whose telephone number is (571)272-7688. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Friday from 9:30 to 6:00.
